ROUTES DU BONHEUR A journey across southern Italy, from sea to sea

Like a straight line connecting the Mediterranean to the Adriatic, this Route du Bonheur leads from Campania to Puglia via astonishing Basilicata. From one coast to the other, the journey celebrates contrasting Italian atmospheres. You'll encounter the slopes of Mount Vesuvius, endless olive groves, even houses carved into the rock. Sorrento, Matera and Ostuni are much more than incredible cities and sites to visit: you may want to spend the rest of your life there.

1 SORRENTO — 2 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Bellevue Syrene 1820

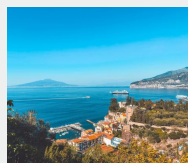

Hotel and restaurant on the seafront. There is an eternal, timeless beauty to the Gulf of Naples, with its jagged coast and deep-blue sea, and the Vesuvius rising in the background. In the most picturesque corner of Sorrento, the Bellevue Syrene was opened in 1820, having been originally designed in 1750 as a private residence built on the foundations of a Roman villa. The location, decor, comfort and sense of history at this hotel make it an extraordinary place. The fishponds full of water lilies evoke the Roman times, while frescos painted as a tribute to famous guests adorn the walls. The recent refurbishment of the hotel has balanced respect for the glorious past with contemporary comfort.

2 MATERA — 2 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Vetera Matera

In the city of Matera, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, Vetera Matera has installed its guest rooms and lounges in some of the Sassi, troglodyte dwellings dug into the mountainside in the Paleolithic era. This original undertaking lets guests explore the city and region while staying in this admirably restored world of stone. The contemporary décor, all of understated elegance, perfectly complements the rough, natural rock and the rooms' broad windows look out onto scenery that has been the backdrop for countless film productions. The accommodations boast large terraces and are set on the heights of the city's historic center, a district woven together by a tangle of alleys and spectacular staircases. The gourmet restaurant at Vetera Matera showcases specialties of the Basilicata region, while the spa invites you to slip into relaxation pools carved into the rock itself.

3 OSTUNI — 2 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

La Sommità Relais

Hotel and restaurant nestled in a historical centre. Hidden behind the main church, a beautiful 16th century palace blends into the whitewashed walls of the town. It is La Sommità (lit. The Summit), perched high above the historic centre of Ostuni. Behind the Catalan-style portal, a veritable oasis is unveiled. The harmony of white and cream tones, natural stone, and minimalist decor invite you to disconnect and recharge. Take the time to read under the shade of an alcove or at the edge of the little pool, get lost staring across the roofs of the city and the groves of olive trees stretching to the Adriatic, before savouring a refined and reinvented Puglian cuisine.
