ROUTES DU BONHEUR Between Cologne and Dresden, the forests and their legends

To cross Germany from west to east, via North Rhine-Westphalia and Saxony, is to encounter parts of the country that are somewhat less well-known. Between Cologne, with its splendid cathedral, and Dresden, known as 'the Florence of the Elbe,' the cities seem to disappear amid these lush green landscapes. Full of surprises, the journey winds through woodlands and valleys steeped in myths and legends. An itinerary guaranteed to delight lovers of forest bathing, castles, palaces, carnivals and museums.

1 BERGISCH GLADBACH — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

Diepeschrather Mühle

A mere half-hour's drive from Cologne, set in a verdant landscape, the Diepeschrather Mühle hotel is the refined inn of Chef-Owner Nelson Müller. It is a veritable sanctuary offering a delicious, relaxing gourmet getaway in the North Rhine-Westphalia countryside. Refresh body and soul on revitalizing strolls and hikes or admire the half-timbered houses of Bergisch Gladbach. The rooms and suites feature contemporary interiors and lovely terraces looking out onto the forest or the outdoor swimming pool. The gourmet restaurant is where the chef-owner can give free rein to his passion for creative, primarily plant-based cuisine made with in-season ingredients, along with a restaurant featuring the farm-to-table concept. The Diepeschrather Mühle hotel is perfect for a serene break enlivened by superb cuisine in both the restaurants and the cooking classes given by the chef himself. Opening on March 28th, 2025.

2 BAD LAASPHE — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

Hotel Jagdhof Glashütte

Hotel and restaurant in the country. Nestled in the Rothaar Mountains, far from the hustle and bustle of daily life, this oasis of hospitality and culinary delights suddenly appears from nowhere. Jagdhof Glashütte, one of Germany's most beautiful countryside hotels, is situated in the heart of a densely wooded region, at the end of the spectacular Lahn Valley. Relaxation, fine dining and romanticism are part of the lifestyle in the forests and former hunting grounds of the Counts of Wittgenstein. The luxurious, rural atmosphere is already evident on entering the magnificent hall with its fireplace for a welcome cocktail. This hotel is ever faithful to its motto: back to nature, but with style.
