

ROUTES DU BONHEUR Croatia : every shade of blue

How many islands and islets are hidden between Dubrovnik and Split? According to experts, there are more than a thousand along this stretch of Croatian coast. Bathed by the crystal-clear waters of the Adriatic, these shores are full of small, idyllic destinations, spread out along the Dalmatian coastline. Following a path between sea and mountains, this Route du Bonheur feels like something of an Odyssey, in search of a past steeped in art, myths and legends, but is also notable for the pleasures of swimming along white sand beaches and in secluded coves.

1 DUBROVNIK — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

Almost all the inhabitants of Dubrovnik claim to have been extras in Game of Thrones! Popularized by the series as 'King's Landing,' the city is dominated by impressive ramparts that plunge into the sea. Within its fortifications, narrow marble-paved streets wind between churches, monasteries and vast palaces with Baroque architecture. Completely restored after the bombings of the Yugoslav War (1991), the 'Pearl of the Adriatic' attracts all lovers of history, whether real or fictional...

2 OREBIĆ — 1 NIGHT

(2 properties available)

Villa Korta Katarina & Winery

Hotel and restaurant on the seafront. While travelling through the region on a humanitarian mission in 2001, philanthropists Lee and Penny Anderson found their way to the Croatian city of Orebic. It was love at first sight — a place where they could bring together both their passion for wine and their admiration for exquisite Dalmatian hospitality. Standing proudly like an oppidum atop a hill, Villa Korta Katarina rises above the Adriatic and surrounding vineyards with undeniable majesty. Its rooms and suites, each boasting sea views, offer modernity in a setting of classical elegance. With a soothing palette of pale blue, grey, white and cream, their decor is a reflection of the fascinating Peljesac Peninsula and its skies of enchanting pastel hues.

Hotel Katarina

At the foot of hills on the Dalmatian coast, surrounded by vineyards and pine forests, Orebic has preserved all the charm and authenticity of a traditional Croatian fishing village—an ideal setting for Hotel Katarina, located right on the seafront in a garden dotted with palm trees. To transform this property into a chic boutique hotel, the owners enlisted renowned American designer Marie Meko to create a stylish vacation atmosphere. Her bright, nautical-inspired decor draws on the colors of the surrounding nature. The sea is ever-present, visible from the suites with balconies and from The Captain's Terrace restaurant, where chef Frano Vidović serves regional cuisine with a taste of the sea, paired with the finest wines from Korta Katarina, the sister property's estate. Hotel Katarina also promises sublime relaxation and well-being at its spa, which includes a sauna and fitness room.

3 KORČULA — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

Lešić Dimitri Palace

Hotel and restaurant on the seafront. People say that the Silk Road started from this island; Korčula has good reason to be proud to be home to Marco Polo's house, a stone's throw from Lešić Dimitri Palace. The building's history dates back to the 17th century, when the Lešić family, rich property owners and merchants combined a number of semi-detached houses to create a palace worthy of that name. It has been meticulously renovated yet with a touch of contemporary design; its historical character and original layout have been retained and it now offers a small number of independent suites. Each evokes a step in Marco Polo's journey towards China, in a harmonious décor, with top-quality materials.

4 STARI GRAD — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

Maslina Resort

Hotel and restaurant on the seafront. It is said that beauty is a promise of happiness; this sentiment takes on its full meaning at the magnificent Maslina Resort. Located in Stari Grad, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, this vast property hosts a number of rooms as well as several suites and villas, all of which boast seafront living spaces with private gardens or pools. Founded on the principles of ecologically responsible hotel management, the property is dedicated to preserving the pristine environment and cultural heritage of the island of Hvar. Its sustainably built accommodations stretch along the Adriatic Sea, where enchanting vineyards converse with charming olive groves under an exalted azure sky. On warm summer days, this elegant Dalmatian setting, nestled in a pine forest, enjoys a refreshing breeze that brings with it an undeniable sense of calm and repose, offering guests a glimpse of eternal bliss.

5 SPLIT — 1 NIGHT

(1 property available)

Built on the Adriatic Sea around the palace of the Roman Emperor Diocletian, Split remains one of the most beautiful and attractive cities in Croatia. Between its beaches and carefully restored historical monuments, a peaceful ambience reigns. Local residents and visitors cross paths at ancient ruins, bustling terraces and cafés, but especially along the Riva, the main quayside, ideal for strolling, day and night.
