ROUTES DU BONHEUR Latin America: a diverse heritage

With their vast squares, churches and monasteries, colorful houses and tiled roofs, Spanish history and architecture remain ever-present in the major cities of Latin and Central America. From Cusco to Quito, or Cartagena to Antigua, this marriage of Inca culture and Baroque influences, Indian and mestizo craftsmanship never ceases to surprise or intrigue. This long heritage draws a unique thread between Peru, Ecuador, Colombia and Guatemala—a path of infinite stories and myriad treasures.

1 CUSCO — 3 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Inkaterra La Casona

Hotel and restaurant in town. This exquisite 16th-century colonial manor was one of the first Spanish buildings in Cusco, located just steps away from the picturesque main square. Once occupied by the conquistadors of Peru, it is now an exclusive boutique hotel that has been carefully restored to retain its historical heritage and décor. With its suites set around a Spanish courtyard, replete with antiques and original architectural details, Inkaterra La Casona offers sober elegance without sacrificing authenticity. This is the perfect base from which to explore the vibrant capital of the Incan Empire and absorb the mysticism of the surrounding Andean valleys and villages.

2 LIMA — 3 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Hotel B

Hotel and restaurant on the seafront. This summer pavilion, dating back to the Belle Époque, is tucked away in the heart of the Barranco district, a protected historic area next to the Pacific Ocean. Marble, exotic woods, a beautifully columned white façade, open balconies and skyhigh ceilings lit by skylights in the roofs – Lima teatinas – give it a charm all of its own. Its renovation was entrusted to sculptors from the Fine Arts Academy and to an Italian cabinetmaker with a view to preserving and showcasing its rich architectural heritage. Hotel B draws its inspiration from the Bohemian atmosphere of the surrounding district and exhibits works by contemporary Peruvian artists, adding to the hotel's character.

3 QUITO — 3 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Casa Gangotena

Hotel and restaurant in town. In the famous Plaza San Francisco, Casa Gangotena brings new life to this mansion that once belonged to one of Quito's most illustrious and influential families. Its neoclassical architecture, recognized as part of the Old Town's UNESCO World Heritage status, wraps around a charming patio adorned with palm trees and an original fountain. Inside, rays from the Andean sun bathe the art deco-style rooms in shimmering light. Reflecting the splendor and elegance of a golden age, they boast antique mirrors, painted ceilings, and sumptuous wall frescoes. From the rooftop terrace, as you sip a delicious local coffee or signature cocktail, you may catch a glimpse of the snow-capped summit of Volcán Cayambe.

4 CARTAGENA — 3 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Casa Pestagua

Hotel and restaurant in town. It is said that Casa Pestagua is the most beautiful house in Cartagena. Painted ceilings, carved stone windows, courtyards and royal palms... this Moorish-inspired colonial palace was built in the eighteenth century, in time of splendour for the city and Spanish galleons laden with gold and precious stones. Under their double ceilings, the rooms are unmistakably romantic; the pond invites you to refresh yourself amidst a beautiful exotic garden, whilst the restaurant under the arcades inspires aristocratic meals. The staff welcomes you with such warmth you will feel as if you were the actual Count de Pestagua!

5 ANTIGUA — 3 NIGHTS

(1 property available)

Villa Bokéh

Hotel and restaurant in town. A sumptuous ambassador of Guatemalan elegance infused with romanticism, Villa Bokéh gracefully connects past, present and future. Located 10 minutes from downtown Antigua, Guatemala's ancient colonial city and a UNESCO World Heritage Site, this intimate, tastefully renovated boutique hotel provides the perfect foil to its vibrant surroundings. Here, the hustle and bustle gives way to silence, interspersed only by the chirping of birds and the lapping of water. With its patios embellished with fountains, its sheltered upstairs galleries and large windows opening onto lush parkland, Villa Bokéh invites you to dream and let go. Adorned with works of art, this luxurious Central American hacienda hosts 16 rooms, some with private gardens and others with balconies. All are enveloped in the bewitching aura of the volcano rising in the distance. Clearly imbued with an ecological commitment that follows the earth's lead, this is a magical haven of true relaxation.
